Potential Customers

Equally important as receiving proper training and quality equipment is learning the most effective tools for developing your customer base. The Ding King has practiced the same marketing concepts as we present to you in our Business and Marketing Courses. These concepts really do work! We grew from a "one man in a van" to employing over 275 full-time auto appearance technicians servicing over 450 used car dealership accounts and operating a chain of retail service centers.

Our goal is to share our marketing strategies with you and help you grow and prosper as a successful auto appearance repair business owner.

Retail Customers

Retail Customers

Some of the most popular methods for developing the retail business are done via online marketing (Website, SEO, Google Ads, Craigslist Ads, etc.), print advertising, direct mail, cable television and vehicle lettering. The least expensive and most effective method is "word of mouth", referrals from satisfied customers.

Over the years, we've found that our business has grown exponentially because a satisfied retail client will tell ten of their friends about how happy they were with our quality repair. This will turn into a tremendous resource for repeat and referral work down the road.

Retail Customers Can Include:

- Detail Shops
- Car Washes
- Insurance Companies
- Office Buildings
- Fleet Accounts

Used Car Dealers

Wholesale Customers

Used car dealers are an excellent source for ongoing weekly business. In order to sell the cars and have them front-line ready, they need to be looking good...that's where you come in.

The most efficient and successful ways to generate wholesale customers is by face-to-face interaction with regular weekly visits, reminding them of your services and commitment to quality customer care.

Wholesale Customers Include:

- Used Car Dealerships
- Body Shops
- Auto Auctions
- Automotive Wholesalers
- Rental Car Companies
- Government Agencies

Paintless Dent Repair Training

How PDR Works

Paintless Dent Repair (PDR) is the “art” of removing dents and dings from automobile sheet metal with the use of specially designed tools. By gaining access to the inside skin of the metal, gentle pressure is applied until the dent is removed. Because PDR works from behind the vehicle’s damage, no sanding, painting or body fillers are required. When repairs are completed, there should be no evidence a dent was ever there.

Personal Instruction

The Ding King offers State Licensed PDR instruction is offered in English and Spanish. Our training is highly personalized and hands-on, working on stationary hoods and vehicles of all kinds. Class sizes are small and highly personal, to teach you the most in the shortest period of time. Students will learn to repair a variety of damage including hail, door dings and dents of all types with an emphasis on quality.

Exclusive Process

The Ding King approach to training Paintless Dent Repair is hands-on and utilizes “proprietary processes.” Ding King will teach you to access dents without having to drill holes.

Our NO-DRILLING process, exclusive to Ding King, offers a “leg-up” on your competition and will make your customers extremely happy not to be left with a bunch of drilled holes in their door jam.

Structured Curriculum

Ding King will teach you step-by-step how to remove both large and small dents on top and side panels, and how to tackle more elaborate repairs such as hail damage, vertical and horizontal creases. You will learn to read the light, proper tool selection, access points, brace configurations and the inner workings of side panels. You will be fully comfortable using all the tools and understanding how to properly read the dent light so that you have the confidence required to produce quality repairs.

Graduates of The Ding King Training Institute get an education from qualified instructors as well as a company that drives industry standards.

Hail Repair

If you're looking to become a hail repair specialist, Ding King will teach you all the details required to work with insurance companies and body shops nationwide. We've trained hundreds of hail technicians who have gone on to become highly skilled professionals working at all levels of the industry. We will provide you with the foundation for you to build your skill-sets and speed to become successful in PDR.

Insurance Approved

Every year, all around the world, intense hail storms occur, leaving vehicles with quarter size to golf ball sized dents on all panels of the car. As a result, insurance companies worldwide have determined that Paintless Dent Repair is not only a "Viable Alternative" to traditional auto body repair; it is the "Preferred Method" of repair.

As a student of our PDR school, we can assist you in developing a business plan for building a PDR business working with body shops, car dealers and insurance companies. Our programs are recognized by every major insurance company across the USA.

Paintless Dent Repair Training

Reading Dents

One of the single most important aspects for learning PDR is to properly “read the light”. Without proper light reading techniques and understanding how to read different light sources, it would be difficult for you to perform quality work. Our training curriculum is designed to help you achieve the proper and correct vision techniques to produce quality repairs, whether working indoors or outdoors. Your package will include a 12v LED portable dent light.

Tool Selection & Access

Tool selection and panel access are thoroughly covered during your PDR training session. After all, if you can't access a dent, you can't repair it. As a training aid, you can view the big screen of you and your instructor repairing damage to help illustrate the molecular changes that are taking place in the sheet metal. All points of access are demonstrated and instructed so you can repair all sizes of dents. Your tools have color coordinated handles for specific dent removal.

Small Training Classes

Our training has been structured for you to learn more in less time. Classes are taught with 1-on-1 interaction or in a small group. Your training will not be conducted in a classroom, but hands-on while working on real vehicles. Through our own life's experiences of being trained ourselves in PDR, we will help you through those rough moments and lead by example, providing you with a foundation to master the PDR craft.

Glue Pulling

Glue pulling has become an important part of the PDR process and is designed for removing dings and dents that aren't accessible utilizing traditional PDR Tools.

Using our special glue and dent pulling tabs, you'll learn how to use all three glue pullers; a slide hammer, t-puller and dent lifter. All of our training programs include a deluxe glue puller kit so you have the right glue puller for every dent.

Our Graduates Go On to Become Successful in PDR

We offer the highest quality Certified PDR Training and PDR Tools in the industry....PERIOD!

Scratches, stone chips and other types of small paint damage are a common annoyance for owners of new or expensive cars. These little annoyances can mean added revenue and profits for you.

How many times have you seen a vehicle where the bumper is scuffed or has some type of paint damage? Did you know that each scuffed bumper can generate up to $250 in revenue with less than ten dollars in product cost?

Our innovative system allows you to make small repairs without the need to clear coat an entire panel. All of this adds up to real added value for your customers. And a real profit opportunity for you.

Our Paint Repair System is easy to use, simple to mix and deliver fast-drying high-performance finishes, making every job look like new. This includes spot, panel and overall touch up repairs to solid, metallic and pearlescent automotive finishes.
